Exchange & Broker's Office,
Georgetown, District of Columbia.

ROMULUS RIGGS
AT his office, next door below Craw-ford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U.
States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns.—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on.

Ten Dollars Reward.
RAN away from the subscriber about the 4th of August, Negro Woman LOUIZA—she is 25 years old, about 5 feet five inches high, and stout; has some of her front teeth out, and is apt to laugh when spoken to; she has a sister Marinda and a mother living in Georgetown, one above
Semmes's tavern, and the other on Herrington Hill, where she has been harbored for two weeks, and left there to come home, but has not done so. I expect she can be found in Georgetown or Alexandria, where she has many acquaintances. I will give the above reward if brought home, or lodged in jail so that I get her again.

Jones's Point.
THE subscriber presents due respect to the gentlemen of Alexandria and its neighborhood, for their liberal encouragement since the commencement of his establishment, and solicits a continuance of their support, informing them that he commences, on Monday the 19th inst. Oyster suppers, which will be continued during the season, and for choice wines, liquors,
and moderate charges, cannot be excelled.
Those who have not visited his tavern, will,
on trial, find his accommodation to surpass
their expectation.
Gentlemen who wish to become subscribers for duck shooting this season, will please to forward their names to me, as the number is limited, and only a few are wanted to make up the subscription. No persons permitted to land on the point except his friends. There is a good carriage road, nearly completed, and a warm stable for horses.

Gone to the Southward or Westward,

A YELLOW WOMAN, called Celia
Detcher, in the 23d year of her age, about 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high—marks like moles on the right side of her face, which,
with several letters on her left arm, were made with india ink. She is about four months gone in a state of pregnancy—followed her husband, Jim Clark, a yellow man, who was purchased from this place and taken away in company with a large number of slaves, about two week ago, by a man of the name of Bassett. It is supposed they have gone to the westward: Celia
was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom, and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may chance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive
that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempts be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman.

the profound knowledge he possesses of the French language, no person is more capable than he of teaching its rudiments and different idioms (which constitute a part of it), and indeed the most correct pronunciation. We have also had an opportunity of conversing with several of the scholars of the same gentleman, who, without ever having been in France, speak good French.

STRANGE DISCOVERY.

A few days ago the ship Hope was taken into one of Mr Smith's docks, at Howrah, and the dock pumped out when a discovery was made of rather an extraordinary nature. Not only had the false keel been almost carried away, but about 10 or 12 feet of the main keel, a little way before the step of the main mast, had also been torn off. For three or four feet no part could be seen remaining unless to a person underneath, the whole being smoothed to the level of the lower streak on each side. In this place a rafter might have been pushed through the hole nearly into the ship's hold, & the water therein continued to drop from the holes.

Such being the appearance, alarming indeed to any one that might suppose himself compelled to plough the ocean in a ship so mangled, it is indeed a matter of surprise that nothing in the course of her last voyage should have led to any suspicion of her disabled state. During the voyage before last, that she made to China she had struck on the outermost extreme of Romania Reef, near the straits of Ginepore, and there she must have sustained the injury now discovered. As however she made no water particularly after the accident, her bottom was considered to be still in good order; and as she has gone her last voyage without complaining of making water, except in some very severe weather in the China Seas, which compelled the ship's returning to this port from China to put back, the astonishment of those who had made the voyage in her may be judged of, on their witnessing the state of her bottom, and reflecting how providentially they had been preserved from a watery grave.

The ship has been long employed in the India trade, but her history, which might be amusing, if correctly stated, is nevertheless involved in obscurity. Evidently built by the Portuguese, and as it is supposed at the Brazils, she has acknowledged merchants of all countries and descriptions for her owners, at different times. She has run long and prosperously, and her good fortune on shore, in obtaining insurance on easy terms during her latter days, was not exceeded by her success in traversing the ocean. Changes have however taken place, and scruples now exist where none were found before—the old Hope has been compelled (with other vessels, that seemed to have been kept as coffins after they had lost their power of safe conveyance) to yield to circumstances, and on Tuesday last she was brought to the hammer, when she was knocked down for Sida Rupees 1800!! In the sale of her sails, the mizen mast went for 30 rupees, the mainmast for 4 or 5, &c. &c. Surely our ship building rivals at home, cannot after this, raise their complaints so loudly against the exorbitant prices of ships, and of marine stores &c. in India.

ENVY AND DETRACTION.

The great law of mutual benevolence is perhaps often violated by envy than by interest. Interest can diffuse itself but to a narrow compass. Envy is seldom pursued but at some hazard; but to spread suspicion—to invent calumnies—to propagate scandal, requires neither talents, nor labor, nor courage.

Take heed you harbor not that vice called envy, lest another's happiness be your torment, and God's blessing become your curse.

Be not censorious, for thou knowest not whom thou judgest. It is a more dexterous error to speak well of an evil man than ill of a good man.

Never employ yourself to discern the faults of others but be careful to mind and prevent your own.

If a jewel be right no matter who says it is a counterfeit. If my conscience tells me that I am innocent, what do I care who tells the world that I am guilty.

Never speak ill of any man; if of a good man it is impiety; if of a bad man give him your prayers.

Let your discourse of others be fair: speak ill of nobody. To do it in his absence is the property of a coward, that slabs a man behind his back; if to his face you add an affront to the scandal; he that praises, bestows a favor, but he that detracts commits a robbery in taking from another what is justly his.

A good word is an easy obligation, but not to speak ill requires only our silence which costs us nothing.

There is an odious spirit in many persons who are better pleased to detect a fault than commend a virtue.

The worthiest people are most injured by slanderers; as we usually find that to be the best fruit which the birds have been picking at.

ALEXANDRIA:
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1818.

OLIVER CROMWELL AND BONAPARTE.
(Concluded.)

Nor did the homage and servile adulation paid to that execrated man Cromwell, stop here. When his son-in-law died, the whole legislature went into mourning for him, and the foreign ambassadors paid him visits of condolence.—The corpse of his mother, the braver, was, notwithstanding the law against luxury, buried in great pomp, and even deposited in Westminster Abbey.—The parliament expressed a wish, on the part of the nation, that the protectorate should be hereditary in his family, and the deputies congratulating him on the occasion, knelt and kissed his hand. Jews, esteeming him the true Messiah, came out of Asia, and he was so flattered with that ridiculous circumstance that he granted them an immediate audience, which was an unusual thing with him. But when they were afterwards simple enough to go to Huntingdon, his birth place, in order to ascertain whether he was really descended from a Jewish family, Cromwell, who would willingly have prided himself on antiquity of ancestry, was so much exasperated, particularly as a satirical pamphlet then appeared, bearing the title of "Cromwell, the Lion of the Tribe of Judah," that he drove them out of his dominions.—Spain, which once strained every sinew to dethrone the good and glorious Henry IV., because he was not a true Catholic, now deputed one of its greatest courtiers, Don Alphonso de Cardenas, as ambassador to Cromwell, the chief of the heretics, and that ambassador requested an audience of him as if he had been a king. The jealousy of Portugal induced her to bribe the commons by banquets. France received Cromwell's son-in-law, Falconbridge, in the most sumptuous and princely manner, and the haughty cardinal Mazarin placed him in the hall on his right hand—an honor which he had never before vouchsafed to any foreign ambassador. The duke de Cregui was also sent to London in great pomp, to congratulate Cromwell, and this also was a distinction which had hitherto been confined to the greatest potentates.—He was more or less flattered by other courts, which sought, either out of fear or self-interest, to make sure of his friendship. As usual, Denmark distinguished itself by the manliness of its conduct. The Dutch also, on account of the princess of Orange, who was a daughter of the decapitated monarch, behaved with great reserve to him. But no power ventured to declare openly against Cromwell, except Russia, which retained not only political but moral dignity; for when Cromwell's ambassador reached the confines of that empire, the czar ordered him to retire and go back to his own country, "being resolved not to receive a mission from robbers, rebels, and regicides."

And after all, what was the end of Cromwell and his pretended commonwealth of England?—Why, in a space of scarcely 12 years, monarchy, rebellion, regicide, republicanism, a protectorate, a horrible tyranny, a feeble successor, again republicanism, and finally monarchy again, triumphed in Britain. The greater part of Charles's judges died by the hands of the executioner. Cromwell's memory was branded with infamy: his corpse was dug up by the common hangman—and, after being burned under the gallows, its ashes were strewed before the wind. His family pined in poverty; his widow was compelled by want to marry a country clergyman; and his children were only pardoned on condition that they should never show their faces in the metropolis.

At this day few are so ignorant of the character of Bonaparte as to be unable to judge for himself how far it forms a parallel to that of Cromwell. His future fate and that of his family is yet unknown—but it is consolatory to think that they are secured by the superior refinement and humanity of the times in which they live from the unworthy treatment bestowed upon the corpse and family of Cromwell; a treatment which, whatever the protector might have deserved, was in the highest degree disgraceful to those who inflicted it.

As we are upon the subject of that extraordinary man, we think it may be amusing to our readers to furnish them with a few adages which Cromwell was much in the habit of repeating:—they will help to throw a light upon the general character of his mind.

"Cunning and deception help through one half of life;—deception and cunning through the other."

"He who has suddenly altered his conduct towards you has either wronged, or is willing to wrong you."

"Never trust him whom thou hast once injured.—If you will not be deceived by an enemy, never trust a friend."

"Govern by fear!"

"When thou canst not revenge thyself be silent, and dissemble."

"The multitude is like a mad man—it must be kept within the length of its chain."

"Who has courage seldom lacks success; but all who succeed have not courage."

"Fortune has singled out many who know it not."

"Subjects are like iron, which, unworked, falls to rust."

"A prince easily forgets the greatest service, but never the slightest injury."

"He who has raised himself to be ruler, by force of arms, can never safely lay them by."

"It is sometimes prudent not to resent an injury—but it ought never to be forgotten."

"He that lightens the burden of an enslaved people, betrays his folly."

"Injuries must be done at once—benefits conferred by degrees."

"Love begins at home." This trite adage used to be more frequently than any other in his mouth.—"As (said he one day to his son-in-law, on leaving the council, to which he had just communicated the alliance with France), as my own prosperity is now secured, we will turn our thoughts to the good of the state!" Here is a looking-glass in which nineteen-twentieths of the demagogues, patriots, pretenders to the amor patrii, and flatterers of the multitude, may see their own image—reflected with truth and accuracy.

Extract from a letter to the editor of the N. York Commercial Advertiser.

"The damage sustained by the loss of the Exchange cannot probably fall much short of half a million of dollars; but there is no part of the town of twice that value, the loss of which would have excited so general and lively regret. It is irreparable. I fear Boston will never again contain a building of such general utility, and so great an ornament."

"What also adds to the general distress, is, one of our most respected and aged citizens, Judge Hammett, went to the assistance of some of the public offices in securing their papers, went home, laid his head on his aged partner's shoulder, and expired."

The circuit court of the United States for the district of Maryland, commenced its session on Saturday last the 7th of November. Present, Gabriel Duval, chief justice, and James Houston, associate judge.

Some of the grand jury not attending on that day, the court did not deliver their charge until Monday, (yesterday.)

After the chief judge had delivered the charge, judge Houston stated that during the vacation a number of the National Intelligence, containing an essay signed Franklin, respecting the South American privateers, had been enclosed in a blank cover, and sent to him. His honor stated that that essay contained a paragraph which might be construed into a threat, and might have been, and probably was, intended as a threat. We disremember the precise terms of that paragraph, but the amount of it was, that one who should condemn persons for engaging in the holy cause of assisting the Patriots of South America, could not long expect to live either as a judge or a man.—His honor observed that that paper could not have been sent to him with any good motive, and he spoke in terms of just and becoming indignation, of an attempt either to influence the mind of a judge on a subject upon which he was about to act in his judicial capacity, or to deter him by threats from a faithful discharge of his duty, and said that he should in all cases discharge his duty in the execution of the laws of his country, regardless of every attempt to bias his mind, or to deter him by threats.

The cases of those gentlemen who have been recognized to answer the informations lodged against them for privateering under South American flags against the commerce of nations, with whom our government is at peace, will be laid before the grand jury, and if bills are found, they will probably have their trials during the term.

[Baltimore Telegraph.]

From the Albany Gazette, Nov. 7.

It has again become our painful duty to record the particulars of the ignominious death of one of our fellow creatures, in compliance with the requisitions of the violated laws of our country. The awful sentence of death was yesterday executed upon James Hamilton, the murderer of the lamented Major Birdsall, in the south part of this city, in the presence of a large concourse of people, from this and the adjoining counties.

It is ever with emotions of the deepest regret that we attempt to detail the solemn ceremonies attendant upon public executions—but custom, and the genius of our laws, which have ordained capital punishments more as an example to the living than as a punishment to the offender, seem to forbid our remaining silent. On the present occasion, however, we shall be as brief as possible. The unhappy convict has expiated his crime upon the gallows—public justice is obtained—and we have every human evidence that the guilty malefactor died a sincere and happy penitent.

Pursuant to previous arrangements, the prisoner left the jail at half past 12 o'clock, guarded by the Albany corps of Artillery, and attended by the Sheriff, his deputies and officers, and by a number of the Rev. Clergy. He had two or three days previously expressed a dislike to be taken to the place of execution in a cart, and had requested of the Sheriff permission to walk. This officer, who has ever treated the prisoner with the utmost attention and humanity, readily allowed him this, as well as all other proper indulgences. He left the prison with a countenance perfectly calm and serene—walked to the place of execution, a distance of more than a mile, with a firm and unshaken step—and ascended the scaffold without assistance or apparent reluctance. The Rev. Mr. Stansbury, who has been constant in his attendance upon the unhappy man since he received his sentence—who has zealously labored "in season and out of season," to dissipate the ignorance and gloom of his uneducated mind, by the holy rays of evangelical light—and who we confidently hope has successfully exhibited to him the riches and glories of the gospel,—attended him to the fatal spot, and ascended the scaffold with him. Mr. Stansbury then gave out the 51st Psalm, 1st part, beginning—

"Shew pity Lord, O Lord forgive."

The singing concluded, Mr. S. addressed the throne of grace and mercy, in a feeling, fervent, and elegant prayer of about 20 minutes. After the prayer was closed, at the request of the prisoner, who stated that he feared if he undertook to speak himself, he should not be able to render his ideas intelligible, Mr. S. addressed the audience in his behalf for more than 30 minutes in the most affectionate and impressive manner. It might with truth be said of the speaker, that the "oil of eloquence was upon his tongue, and the honey of persuasion upon his lips." In the course of the address, the prisoner requested Mr. S. to make a public confession for him, of the sense he entertained of the enormity of the crime he had committed—his full belief in the justness of the sentence about to be inflicted—that he felt no desire to evade the requirements of the law—and to declare his confidence in the christian religion, and in the efficacy of the blood of the Redeemer shed for the salvation of man. Notwithstanding the Rev. gentleman on whom had devolved these weighty and important duties, was greatly agitated and affected, yet, both his prayer and address, whether we regard them as pure streams of piety and devotion, or as the effusions of the classic divine, were masterly performances; and we hope they will make a suitable and lasting impression upon the thousands who listened to him with such profound attention.

The services were closed by singing the 51st Psalm, 2d part—

"Lord, I am vile, conceive'd in sin," &c.

The prisoner then addressed a few words to those who stood immediately about him, and took a final and affectionate farewell of the sheriff, Mr. Stansbury, and at his particular request, of several of his former officers and companions in arms. He was then launched into eternity, under the full confidence, as he frequently declared during the day, of having received a pardon for his sins, and consequently of enjoying a blessed immortality. And may this awful example prove salutary!

Hamilton, during his confinement since his trial, and upon the day of execution, conducted himself with the utmost propriety. He appeared perfectly resigned to his fate, and during the last hour neither uttered a murmur nor a sigh. When first swung off, the cord broke, in consequence of the friction upon the lock above—but even then, neither his composure nor his resolution forsook him. He regained his feet, and ascended the scaffold, as firmly as before.

The assemblage of spectators was uncommonly numerous—probably from 10 to 12,000—and the crowd through the streets on the way to the place of execution, was so strong as to create serious apprehensions; but in consequence of the judicious arrangements made by Mr. Sheriff Hempstead, and the good conduct of his officers, and the military on duty, we are happy to state that no material accident occurred.

Brookville, October 17.

The negotiation at St. Mary's has resulted in an extinguishment of Indian title, so far as it particularly interests the state of Indiana, to the lands within the following limits, to wit; beginning at fort Wayne and thence down the Wabash river to the mouth of Tippecanoe river, thence up the Tippecanoe on the w. side of the Wabash, to a point twenty-five miles from the latter, thence with the general course of the Wabash river; at the average distance of twenty-five miles, to the western boundary of Indiana, thence with the boundaries of the last purchase, to fort Recovery; thence to Laramies' store, thence to the reservation at St. Mary's and down the St. Mary's river to fort Wayne; including a body of land amounting by computation to seven and an half millions of acres, over and above the following reservations, to wit; fourteen sections by the Potawatomes, to persons of half breed. The Weas, seven miles square, at the mouth of Racoon creek. The Delawares, two and an half sections at First creek above Old fort on White river. The Miami, (besides other individual reservations for half breeds) have reserved a tract of 30 or 35 miles square, from the mouth of Eel river to Cranberry creek, and two others of ten miles square, below the last mentioned reservation, all of which bound on the Wabash except the reservations made by the Delawares. The large reservation can only be disposed of to the United States.

The annuities given for the above lands from the best calculations that can be made will not exceed six cents an acre.

Notice.
BY virtue of an order from the Orphans'
Court of Charles county, the subscribers will sell on the 11th day of November next, all the real and personal estate of Philip Edelen, late of Charles county deceased, consisting of one farm lying near Bryan Town; this land is so valuable and so generally known, that a description of it here is deemed unnecessary. It contains about 400 acres, and will be sold on the following terms, to wit: one third of the purchase money must be paid on the day of sale; the remaining two thirds must be paid in two equal payments, one at twelve months after the day of sale, and the other in two years, the purchaser giving bond,
with approved security, bearing interest from the day of sale. The personal estate is also valuable, and consists of stock of every description of superior quality; also of household and kitchen furniture, the crop
now on the land, and many other articles too tedious here to enumerate. The last mentioned property will be sold on a credit of six months for all sums of twenty dollars and over, the purchaser giving bond with approved security, bearing interest from the day of sale; all sums under twenty dollars, the cash will be required. The sale to commence at 11 o'clock A. M. and continue from day to day till all is sold.

Valuable Land for Sale.
HAVING more land in the tract on which I reside than I can farm to advantage, I will expose to public sale, on the 3rd day of NOVEMBER next, if fair, if not the next fair day, eight hundred acres, divided into lots of two hundred acres; each lot has seventy acres in wood—of the cleared land one hundred and fifty acres are in clover, and two hundred in rye and wheat. This land is situated ten miles below Alexandria, and is bounded north and east by Accotink creek, which separates the lower part of it from Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price can be had for grain. It is as fertile as any land in the county, and as susceptible of improvement, by clover and plaster, as any I have seen. Persons wishing to view it will call on the subscriber, living at Cedar Grove, one mile below Janney's mill.
The terms will be one-third of the purchase money in hand, and the balance in two equal annual payments. The sale will take place at 12 o'clock, on the premises.
EDGAR McCARTY.
Fairfax co. Va. October 6

Gaston for Sale.
THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria. It is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Potlick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaster acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania. I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain; being bounded on sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole; it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary out-house, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 300 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might), have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvas backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment. Letters must be addressed to me at Potlick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.
September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.
THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence. The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient farm dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables. There is on this place a rich and productive garden, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutritious as the best timothy or clover. With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or FRANCIS ADAMS, Jr.

For Sale.
A TRACT OF LAND in the county of Fairfax, between the Little River Turnpike Road and that from Leesburg to Georgetown, called SELBY, containing from 5 to 600 acres, situated in the neighborhood of Alexandria, Georgetown, and city of Washington. The land is in good order, with sufficient buildings for the purposes of farming, well watered, wooded, and adapted to plaster. As it is presumed that persons disposed to purchase will view the premises, further description is unnecessary.
Terms of sale liberal, and will be made known on application to John A. and Bushrod C. Washington, near Charlestown, Jefferson county, Virginia, or

July 18

For Sale.
A valuable Farm in Jefferson County. BY virtue of a decree of the Superior Court of Chancery for the Fredericksburg District in Virginia, in a suit wherein the Executors of Gen. George Washington were complainants; and Gerard Alexander, Thomas L. Alexander, (by Ludwell Lee, his appointed guardian) Ludwell Lee, R. D. H. L. Washington, John A. Washington, Bushrod C. Washington, and Mary Lee Washington, were defendants, will be exposed to sale to the highest bidder on the premises, on Friday the 20th day of November next, all that tract of land lying in Jefferson County, Virginia, on Bullskin, commonly called Rockhall, containing 540 acres, now in the occupation of John Saunders.
The above tract of land lies about sixteen miles from Winchester, and about six from Charlestown, on the main road leading from Winchester to Baltimore, the city of Washington and Alexandria. It is well adapted to plaster and clover, and is in quality little inferior, if at all, to any farm in that fertile valley. The improvements on it are a large two story frame dwelling house, a barn and other necessary out-houses. The water is limestone and of excellent quality.
The terms of sale will be one-third of the purchase money, and the balance to be paid with interest, in one, two and three annual instalments, to be secured by a deed of trust on the property.
Any person wishing to view the land will be shown it upon application to John A. Washington or Bushrod C. Washington, living near it.
Alfred A. Powell, Henry St. George Tucker, Robert Worthington.
September 24

Land for Sale.
THE subscriber offers for sale a tract of 80 acres of land, on the Colchester road, five miles from Alexandria, adjoining the lands of Haywood Foote and Dennis Johnston. The greater part of this tract is fine meadow land, abundantly supplied with water. Also one other tract of 261 acres, on the Ravensworth road, about 6 miles from Alexandria, and one mile from the first mentioned tract, adjoining land of Thos. Janney and Mr. M. Pherson: the greater part of this tract is in wood, the soil good and highly susceptible of improvement from the use of plaster. If these lands are not sold before the first of January next, they will be for rent.

PROPOSALS.
By Gideon Fairman, John Binns and Charles S. Parker.
TO PUBLISH
A Splendid Edition of Washington's Farewell Address.
To the People of the United States.

THE world has seen enough of warriors and of Heroes—enough of Statesmen—of men who have guided Armies in the field, or dictated as Sages in the Cabinet, for the exclusive purpose of Ambition. History from its earliest page to the present day, has offered to our contemplation, only one WASHINGTON, but ONE MAN, whose dangers in war, and labors in peace, were undertaken and supported with a single eye, to the benefit of his country; whose wonderful and honorable success, was the plain result of wisdom in design, and valor in execution; whom danger never appalled, nor defeat depressed; who, persevering in the justice of his cause, wooed Victory till he won her: who coveted no reward but the well earned approbation of those whose interest he lived to promote: who renounced all public honors, when they ceased to be the necessary instruments of good to the people, whose gratitude conferred them: who superior to all Monarchs, was content to be called the American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings:—the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations: of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition.
The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at Yorktown, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; & when it shall be completed, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by Mr. Amies. The INK shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials. The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical part executed by John Binns. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splendid edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splendid Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A Legislator for its Security! A Magistrate for its Happiness," it is not intended to solicit any Subscriptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving.
